A Kinder, Gentler Saddam

NEW YORK | Saddam Hussein loves Doritos, hates Froot Loops, admires President Ronald Reagan, thinks Bill Clinton was "OK" and considers both Presidents George Bush "no good." He talks a lot, worries about germs and insists he is still president of Iraq.

Those and other details of the deposed Iraqi dictator's life in U.S. military custody appear in the July issue of GQ magazine, based on interviews with five Pennsylvania National Guardsmen who went to Iraq in 2003 and were assigned to Saddam's guard detail for nearly 10 months.

The five soldiers told GQ of their personal interactions with Saddam, saying he spoke with them in rough English and even invited them back to Iraq when he returns to power.

Saddam was friendly toward his young guards and sometimes offered fatherly advice. When Spc. Sean O'Shea, then 19, told him he was not married, Saddam "started telling me what to do," the soldier recalled. "He was like, 'You gotta find a good woman. Not too smart, not too dumb. Not too old, not too young. One that can cook and clean.'"

Then he smiled, made what O'Shea interpreted as a "spanking" gesture, laughed and went back to doing his laundry in the sink. (AP)

Bolton a Quandary For Bush

Democrats again block vote on controversial U.N. pick

WASHINGTON | Democrats blocked another attempt Monday by the Senate to confirm John Bolton to become U.N. ambassador, delivering a second-straight setback to President Bush even as he left the door open to temporarily installing Bolton on his own.

The Republican-run chamber fell six votes short of the 60 it needed to end Democratic delays that have prevented a roll call on confirming the tough-talking conservative.

The tally left Bush facing stark choices — most of which could leave him looking weak at a time when he is facing sagging poll numbers and fighting lame-duck status six months into his final term.

Wielding a seldom-used power, he could install Bolton during the Senate's upcoming July 4 recess without the chamber's approval. Under the Constitution, the so-called recess appointment would only last through the next one-year session of Congress — in Bolton's case until January 2007.

Should Bush decide against that, he could withdraw the nomination or authorize further concessions to Democrats who are demanding access to information, some of it classified, about Bolton before they stop stalling.

Democrats are seeking materials related to Bolton's 2003 testimony on Syria and weapons of mass destruction to see whether he exaggerated intelligence data to fit his ideological convictions. LIZ SIDOTI (AP)

E-MAIL

Re: Humiliated Jerks

Removing a ketchup stain from his pants cost Briton Richard Phillips $7.30. The spat over who would pay the bill may have cost the lawyer his dignity. An e-mail exchange allegedly between Phillips and his secretary, Jenny Amner, was forwarded on by her and has since spread across the Internet and become a talking point in the British press. On May 25, Phillips wrote to his secretary that he wanted the cash that day for the stain removal. Amner, who was off work because of her mother's death, replied June 3: "Due to my mother's sudden illness, death and funeral I have had more pressing issues than your 4 pounds." (AP)

TERMS

'British Sloth Society' Takes Note

British farmers are campaigning to have the term "couch potato" removed from the dictionary because they believe it is hurting the vegetable's reputation. Instead, the British Potato Council — which represents about 4,000 growers and processors — is proposing to replace the term with "couch slouch." Protests were organized Monday outside dictionary publisher Oxford University Press in London to defend the "inherently healthy" potato. A "couch potato" under the current dictionary definition is "a person who spends leisure time passively or idly sitting around, especially watching television or video tapes." (AP)

Death Row Sentence Overturned

Supreme Court faults work of defense lawyer in '88 Pa. murder case

WASHINGTON | The Supreme Court on Monday threw out yet another sentence for a death row inmate, issuing a warning to state courts in a 17-year-old Pennsylvania case that shoddy defense work wouldn't be tolerated.

The justices have been particularly active in death penalty issues this session, making it unlawful to execute juveniles, scolding prosecutors for stacking a jury on racial lines and ruling it was unconstitutional to force defendants to appear before juries in chains during a trial's penalty phase.

Competency of legal counsel is perhaps the biggest unresolved death penalty issue now that the court has said juveniles and the mentally retarded may not be executed.

The competency issue was the centerpiece of the appeal by Ronald Rompilla, who was convicted of robbing, stabbing and setting on fire a tavern owner in Allentown, Pa., in 1988. Justices sided with him in a 5-4 ruling that gives him a new penalty trial. More broadly, the ruling means defense lawyers will have to more vigorously investigate capital defendants' past records for evidence that might save their lives. (AP)

Jury Grappling With Killen Verdict

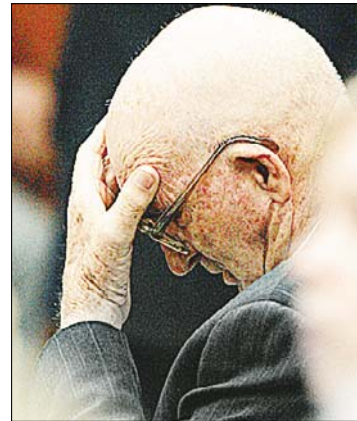

Panel reports being deadlocked but will continue to deliberate

PHILADELPHIA, MISS. | The murder case against a former Klansman charged in the slayings of three civil rights workers went to the jury Monday after prosecutors made an impassioned plea for a conviction, saying the victims' families have waited a long 41 years for someone to be brought to justice.

"Because the guilt of Edgar Ray Killen is so clear, there is only one question left," prosecutor Mark Duncan said in closing arguments. "Is a Neshoba County jury going to tell the rest of the world that we are not going to let Edgar Ray Killen get away with murder any more?"

The 12 jurors — nine white and three black — deliberated the fate of 80-year-old Edgar Ray Killen for about two and a half hours Monday before going home without a verdict. At the end of the day, the judge polled jurors and the panel reported being deadlocked 6-6. The judge then told them to return Tuesday to resume deliberations.

Edgar Ray Killen is on trial for his role in the murders of three civil rights workers. ROGELIO SOLIS/REUTERS

In his closing argument, defense Attorney James McIntyre said that while events that occurred in 1964 were horrible and he had sympathy for the families of the victims, "the burden of proof does not reflect any guilt whatsoever" on the part of Killen, who could get life in prison.

The victims — James Chaney, Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner — were helping register black voters when they were ambushed by a gang of Klansmen. They were beaten and shot, and their bodies were found buried 44 days later. EMILY WAGSTER PETTUS (AP)

Searchers Have 'Nothing to Go On' For Missing Boy

KAMAS, UTAH | Searchers had few clues Monday to the whereabouts of an 11-year-old boy missing from a popular Boy Scout camp in a rugged, snowcapped mountain range in Utah.

Brennan Hawkins was last seen Friday afternoon at the camp in the Uinta Mountains.

"We have nothing to go on," Summit County Sheriff Dave Edmunds said.

The sheriff said he had no reason to suspect foul play, but he had opened a criminal investigation and detectives were checking the background of every adult who was at the camp Friday. (AP)

Sex Offender Laws Spark Concerns

Experts wonder about harmful backlash from tightening restrictions

ALBANY, N.Y. | The clamps are coming down on released sex offenders like never before. Laws restrict where they can live, Web sites list their names, satellites track their steps. Neighbors and bosses force them from their homes and jobs.

The tightening of restrictions around the country comes after several recent slayings of children, allegedly by released sex offenders. The crackdown is aimed at protecting youngsters.

But some experts wonder if sex offenders are being pushed so far to the fringes that they could actually become more dangerous to society.

Some researchers and treatment providers say that sex offenders are finding it harder to maintain homes

BALANCING ACT: Some of the measures communities across the country have used to restrict sex offenders could be pushing them back toward dangerous behavior.

and jobs and establish stable lives for themselves.

"I would rather have someone who has committed a sex offense be going to work every day, come home tired, have a sense of well-being that comes from having a regular paycheck and a safe home, as opposed to having a sex offender who has a lot of free time on his hands," said Richard Hamill, president of the New York State Alliance of Sex Offender Service Providers. "You tell me: Who is at a greater risk of reoffending?"

In a study published this year, researchers surveyed 183 sex offenders in Florida and found 27 percent said they lost a job because a boss or co-workers found out about their crime, 20 percent had to move from their home because a landlord found out, 15 percent had to leave after neighbors complained, and 33 percent were threatened or harassed by neighbors.

"I feel trapped in living where I do," one of those surveyed said.

Co-author Jill Levenson, a professor at Lynn University in Florida, said "psychosocial stresses" have been linked to repeat offenses among criminals. MICHAEL HILL (AP)

Man Shouting Threats in Courthouse Shot to Death

A man shouting threats and carrying what appeared to be a hand grenade was shot to death by law enforcement officers Monday in the lobby of the federal courthouse, authorities said. Paramedics could not approach the man for more than an hour while a bomb squad checked out the backpack strapped to his chest and found it did not contain any additional explosives. Witnesses said he tried to get past security, began shouting threats and was then shot, a police spokeswoman said. (AP)

Lawmaker Says Democrats Are 'Demonizing' Christians

A Republican congressman accused Democrats on Monday of "denigrating and demonizing Christians" by concluding there was religious intolerance at the U.S. Air Force Academy. Rep. John Hostettler, R-Ind., made the charge against Reps. Steve Israel, D-N.Y., and David Obey, D-Wis., during debate on a proposal by Democrats that would put Congress on record against "coercive and abusive religious proselytizing" at the academy. Democrats leapt to their feet and demanded Hostettler be censured for his remarks. After a half-hour's worth of wrangling, Hostettler retracted his comments. (AP)

Goss Claims to Have 'Idea' Where Bin Laden Is Hiding

NEW YORK | The director of the CIA says he has an "excellent idea" where Osama bin Laden is hiding, but that the United States' respect for sovereign nations makes it more difficult to capture the al Qaeda chief.

In an interview with Time magazine for its June 27 issue, Porter Goss was asked about the progress of the hunt for bin Laden.

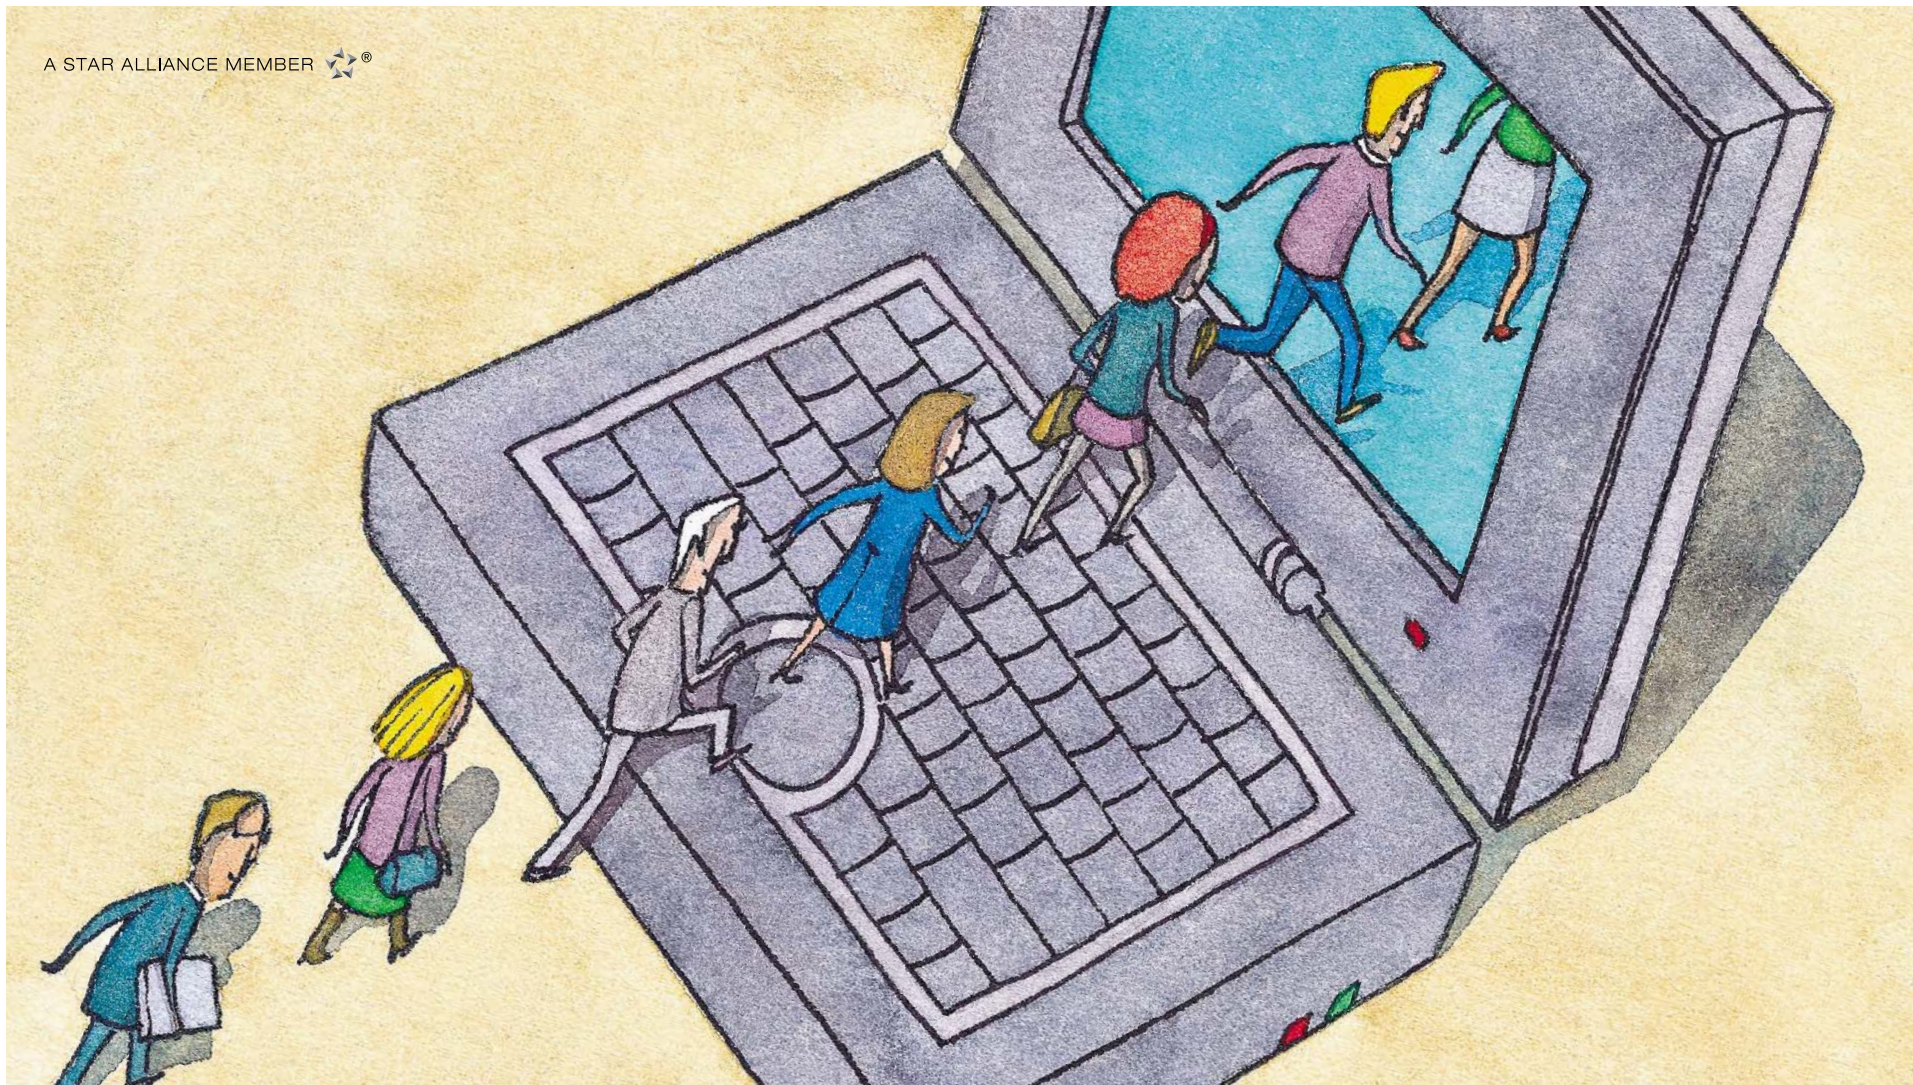

Goss

"When you go to the question of dealing with sanctuaries in sovereign states, you're dealing with a problem of our sense of international obligation, fair play," Goss said.

Asked whether that meant he knew where bin Laden is, Goss said: "I have an excellent idea where he is. What's the next question?"

Goss did not say where he thinks bin Laden is, nor did he specify what country or countries he was referring to when he spoke of foreign sanctuaries. (AP)

Coalition led by son of slain former premier is declared victorious

BEIRUT, LEBANON | The son of Lebanon's slain former prime minister, whose anti-Syrian slate swept to victory in the final round of Lebanon's parliamentary elections, reached out Monday to his defeated opponents with promises that he would not "close the door on anyone."

Saad Hariri's anti-Syrian opposition captured control of Lebanon's parliament Monday in the fourth and final round of the country's elections, breaking Syria's long domination of the country.

Lebanon in Sunday's polling.

"The north has decided the character of the new parliament and given the absolute majority to the opposition," Hariri said.

Asked whether he would seek the premiership, 35-year-old Hariri said he would consult his allies. The son of assassinated former Prime Minister Rafik Hariri also said he would negotiate with other parliamentary blocs to broaden his alliance.

The opposition's victory capped four months of political upheaval since the Feb. 14 assassination of Rafik Hariri. The killing provoked mass demonstrations against Syria which, backed by U.N. and U.S. pressure, forced Syria to withdraw its troops from Lebanon by late April, ending 29 years of military and political dominance.

The opposition blamed Syria and pro-Syrian elements in the Lebanese security services for blowing up Hariri's motorcade, killing him and 20 others on a Beirut street. Syria denied involvement. (AP)

Insurgents in Iraq Continue Blitz of Suicide Attacks

IRBIL, IRAQ | A suicide car bomber wearing a police uniform killed at least 15 traffic policemen and wounded 100 others Monday during morning roll call at a police headquarters in this oil-rich northern Kurdish city.

The bombing was the latest in a relentless series of explosions that have killed nearly 1,200 people in less than two months.

Irbil and Sulaimaniyah are two key cities in Iraq's northern Kurdish region, which has enjoyed autonomous rule since 1991. The area has been largely sheltered from the violence wracking the rest of Iraq, but has seen several major bombings.

Monday's attack in Irbil was the largest in a day of violence that saw at least 37 people killed — mostly Iraqi policemen and soldiers. One U.S. soldier was killed by a roadside bomb in northern Iraq. (AP)

Rice Holds Fort in Cairo

CAIRO | Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice prodded Middle Eastern leaders Monday to reform their governments, declaring that the U.S. was no longer willing to accept regional stability at the expense of political freedom.

"Throughout the Middle East, the fear of free choices can no longer justify the denial of liberty," Rice said in an address notable for its setting — Egypt, an important U.S. ally. "It is time to abandon the excuses that are made to avoid the hard work of democracy."

Egypt will hold its first multiparty election this fall, but opposition groups say the voting is a sham set up to favor the ruling party of Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak.

"For 60 years, my country ... pursued stability at the expense of democracy ... and we achieved neither," she said. "Now, we are taking a different course. We're supporting the democratic aspirations of all." (AP)

Blair Digs In for Fight After EU Summit

PM on offense after being blamed for setback

LONDON | An unapologetic Prime Minister Tony Blair bluntly defended his vision for Europe on Monday, telling Parliament his rivals on the continent were to blame for the collapse of a European Union summit because they blocked economic reforms needed to compete in a new global era.

"The crisis is not about the failure of Europe's leaders to reach agreement with each other," Blair told legislators, drawing applause from opponents and from members of his own Labour Party. "The crisis is about the failure of Europe's leaders to reach agreement with the people of Europe about the issues that concern them."

Many European leaders had cast the British leader as the villain in the dramatic failure of last week's EU summit, where Blair's steadfast defense of his country's budget rebate won him points among the euroskeptic British public.

But on Monday, Blair sought to cast his disagreement with France and Germany over funding as part of a deeper question of how Europe can remain competitive if member nations insist on generous social subsidies and inflexible labor markets.

While Blair's tough position may boost his domestic standing following electoral setbacks last month, it could also create difficulties for him.

Blair hopes to secure a sweeping aid package for Africa at the G-8 summit and he will also be taking over the difficult task of leading the EU out of crisis following the stunning rebukes of the EU constitution by voters in France and Holland.

The antagonism Blair has faced from some EU leaders — notably French President Jacques Chirac and German Chancellor Gerhard Schroeder — may prove formidable obstacles in both challenges. (AP)

The arrests of the suspects, shown above, came days after officials warned foreign fighters may try to cause mayhem ahead of parliamentary elections.

3 Pakistanis Held in Plot to Kill U.S. Envoy

KABUL, AFGHANISTAN | Afghan intelligence agents scuttled a plot to assassinate outspoken U.S. Ambassador Zalmay Khalilzad, swooping down on a station wagon carrying three Pakistanis armed with Kalashnikovs and rocket-propelled grenades, officials said Monday.

The men were arrested Sunday in northeastern Laghman province, just 150 feet from where Khalilzad had planned to inaugurate a road, two senior Afghan officials said. The officials said agents were lying in wait after intelligence forces were tipped off about the plot.

Khalilzad, who will be the next U.S. ambassador in Iraq, canceled his appearance at the road opening and was never in danger. (AP)

Female Orgasms Linked to Brain Turning Off Fear

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK | New research indicates that parts of the brain that govern fear and anxiety are switched off when a woman is having an orgasm.

In the first study to map brain function during orgasm, scientists from the Netherlands also found that the areas of the brain that govern emotional control are not switched off when the orgasm is faked.

"The fact that there is no deactivation in faked orgasms means a basic part of a real orgasm is letting go," said neuroscientist Gert Holstege, presenting his findings Monday at the annual meeting of the European Society of Human Reproduction and Embryology. (AP)

UGANDA | OPENING DOORS

CHALLENGE FOR THE WEST: A young Sudanese refugee sits in the shadow of her hut as others celebrate World Refugee Day at Ikafe camp in northwest Uganda on Monday. U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees Antonio Guterres said on Monday that nations like Uganda, which hosts thousands of people who have fled neighboring African conflicts, should serve as a lesson to the West, where many nations' asylum policies are becoming increasingly restrictive.

Va. lawmakers hear anger over proposed moves by Pentagon

ARLINGTON, VA. | Thomas Hafer is a security consultant who walks 15 minutes each day to his Arlington office near the defense agency clients he serves. But he's already decided what he'll do if the military moves those customers out of the area, as the Pentagon has suggested.

"Hell no, I won't go," he told an audience of some 200 gathered at George Mason University Law School for a town hall meeting about Northern Virginia base closures. Hafer, 56, was one of the dozen or so audience members who vented in front of a bipartisan panel of Virginia lawmakers about the relocations to beyond-the-Beltway spots like Fort Belvoir in southern Fairfax County.

"There's virtually no support for the move," U.S. Rep. Jim Moran, D-Va., said after the gathering.

Moran and the other lawmakers at the meeting acknowledged they couldn't directly stop the roughly 23,000 area defense jobs from being slashed or relocated if an independent commission follows the Pentagon's recommendations.

Chief Ramsey's Car Stolen in D.C.

WASHINGTON | District of Columbia Police Chief Charles H. Ramsey has personal insight into the city's car theft problem. The chief learned Sunday morning that his unmarked black 1999 Ford Crown Victoria was stolen not far from his home.

"When he went to go to the car to go to church, he discovered that it was missing," said Sgt. Joe Gentile. Some police equipment, including a riot helmet, was in the car, but there were no weapons, Gentile said.

The Metropolitan Police Department is hoping a tip will lead to the vehicle's return. (AP)

Kilgore Vows to Crack Down on Gang Problem

Nominee for governor outlines proposals to toughen Va. penalties

RICHMOND, VA. | Republican Jerry Kilgore said Monday that if he is elected governor he will urge legislators to eliminate the "trigger man" requirement from the capital murder statute so gang leaders who order subordinates to kill can be put to death.

He also proposed expanding the law to allow the death penalty for murders committed as part of gang activity and for murdering a crime witness.

Kilgore said the changes would build on his efforts as attorney general, including pushing for harsher sentences for gang crimes and promoting education programs to prevent children from joining gangs.

"We've made real progress

FIGHTING CRIME

Other proposals suggested by Kilgore on Monday include:

- ALLOWING prosecution under the gang participation law for any felony committed by a gang member.
- PROHIBITING offenders from associating with gang members.
- ALLOWING civil lawsuits against gangs.
- INTENSIVE rehabilitation programs for first-time offenders.

in fighting criminal gangs that threaten our children and imperil our communities," Kilgore told reporters on a teleconference. "I consider it our number-one public safety concern." LARRY O'DELL (AP)

15 Years for Adelphia Founder

John Rigas sentenced to prison for fraud; son gets 20 years

NEW YORK | John Rigas, who turned a $300 investment a half-century ago into cable behemoth Adelphia Communications Corp., was sentenced to 15 years in prison Monday for his role in the looting and debt-hiding scandal that pummeled the company into bankruptcy.

Rigas' son Timothy, 49, who like his father was convicted last year of bank fraud, securities fraud and conspiracy, was sentenced to 20 years in prison. U.S. District Judge

Timothy Rigas

John Rigas

Leonard Sand could have sentenced both men to life.

The sentences are among the harshest handed down since the fall of Enron in 2001 touched off a rash of corporate scandals that rocked the markets and have cost investors billions of dollars.

Raising the possibility that the 80-year-old Rigas could die behind bars, Sand said the sentence might be cut short if Rigas serves at least two years and doctors believe he has less than three months to live.

Prosecutors had accused the Rigases of using complicated systems to spread money around to various family-owned entities and as a cover for stealing about $100 million for themselves.

Worse still for investors, the company collapsed into bankruptcy in 2002 after it disclosed a staggering $2.3 billion in off-balance-sheet debt that prosecutors said was deliberately hid by the Rigases. ERIN MCCLAM (AP)

Oil Prices Rise Despite OPEC's Plans

NEW YORK | Oil prices marched to new heights — near $60 a barrel — even as OPEC's president said Monday the group will consider raising its output ceiling by half a million barrels as early as this week.

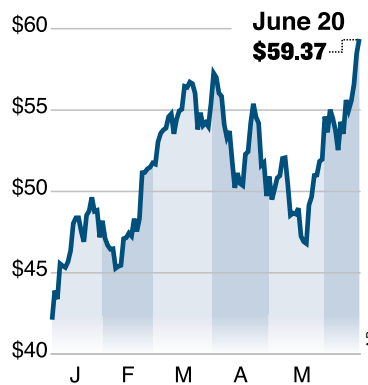

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries raised its output target by that amount just last week. The move appeared to have little impact on prices, which have risen by almost $12 a barrel in the past month because of concerns about limited refining capacity and rising demand for gasoline and diesel.

Light sweet crude for July delivery climbed 90 cents, ending at $59.37 a barrel, a record close on the New York Mercantile Exchange, a site for oil future trading since 1983.

U.S. gas prices average about $2.13 a gallon, an increase of more than 40 percent during the past two years, but government data released last week showed demand is up almost 3 percent from a year ago during the past four weeks at nearly 9.5 million barrels a day — a growth rate that surprised many analysts. Shedding Cellulite

They're not cure-alls, but new options help combat the condition

COSMETICS | Over-the-counter products claim to make cellulite disappear from women's thighs, hips and buttocks. But most fall short of erasing the dimpled skin many women consider unsightly.

New treatments, however, appear to be effective at smoothing the skin. One uses heat and massage; another utilizes a low-energy laser and massage device. Still another is a controversial injection therapy. But none is the cure-all that women, about 80 percent of whom have cellulite, have hoped for, offering only noticeable, yet modest, improvement.

Still, some treatments can significantly change the appearance of the fat deposits, doctors say. Results vary, however, and periodic follow-up treatments are needed.

Treating cellulite is difficult because the condition is natural, said Dr. Rod J. Rohrich of the University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center, in Dallas. Experts describe it as the clumping and enlargement of ordinary fat cells; cellulite is linked to hormonal changes, genetics and dietary factors. "It has to do with estrogen-induced skin changes," Rohrich said.

Even liposuction does not cure cellulite, Rohrich said, because it does not change skin composition. As for other treatments:

Heat and Massage: The VelaSmooth device combines infrared light and radio frequency with rollers that manipulate the tissue. This combination sends heat deep into the tissue to break down fat in cells and shrink the cells. "You also have the mechanical action of the rollers that kneads the skin. It kind of massages it and facilitates penetration of the heat," said Dr. Mary Lee Amerian, a Los Angeles dermatologist.

Patients typically undergo 45-minute treatments twice a week for about six weeks. Improvement tends to last about six months, Amerian said; monthly treatments are needed to maintain the benefits.

One trial of 20 patients showed that all had some improvement in the appearance of cellulite and 75 percent had a reduction in the circumference of the treated thigh, with an average reduction of 2.5 centimeters.

VelaSmooth, which costs about $200 per treatment, is "the best thing out there right now for cellulite," said Dr. Tina S. Alster of the Washington Institute of Dermatologic Laser Surgery in Washington. "Does it melt cellulite away? No. But as far as an easy treatment that is effective, it's the most effective thing."

Laser and Massage: TriActive is a device that combines a low-energy laser to enhance blood circulation with mechanical massage to stimulate and tighten tissue.

One study of the device showed treatment improved the appearance of cellulite in 83 percent of patients. TriActive works best if patients undergo at least 10 30-minute treatments, weekly or semiweekly, with monthly maintenance treatments thereafter; the treatments cost $80 to $150.

Massage: In a technique called Endermologie, patients don a body stocking and lie prone while a technician uses a hand-held device with rollers that draw up skin folds and roll them to break up pockets of cellulite and increase circulation. "It swells the skin to make cellulite go away temporarily," Rohrich said.

Endermologie, which costs about $100 per treatment, typically involves two treatments a week for 10 weeks, followed by regular maintenance treatments.

Mesotherapy: Mesotherapy involves injecting into the mesoderm — the layer of fat and connective tissue under the skin — substances aimed at breaking up and metabolizing fat. Lionel Bissoon, a New York osteopath, said that, among other substances, he uses phosphatidylcholine, a naturally occurring substance that has a role in the digestion of dietary fat, and aminophylline, an asthma medication that, he said, helps break down fat.

"You need to break down fat and increase circulation," he said. "Each medication is specific to the condition."

The mainstream medical community, however, remains wary of mesotherapy because it's potentially risky. Patients — who go to 10 to 15 initial treatments and an annual follow-up treatment at $500 each — could suffer from allergic reactions or toxicity. SHARI ROAN (LOS ANGELES TIMES)

Jockeys Appeal Penalties For Wearing Ads on Clothes

Three jockeys fined and suspended for wearing unapproved advertising on their clothing during the Kentucky Derby have appealed the penalties imposed by stewards at Churchill Downs. Stewards suspended Jeremy Rose, Kent Desormeaux and Corey Nakatani from riding for seven days and fined the jockeys $5,000 each. The suspensions, announced Friday, were to begin Monday, but the penalties will be stayed until the appeal is heard by the Kentucky Horse Racing Authority. (AP)

Horry Plays the Hero Once Again

Spurs can win the NBA championship tonight

NBA FINALS | Robert Horry came to the San Antonio Spurs as a castoff.

Two months before he signed as a free agent with the Spurs in July 2003, Horry endured the worst postseason of his pro career. He missed all but two of his 38 3-point attempts, and his Los Angeles Lakers lost in the second round to the eventual champion Spurs.

The Lakers declined to exercise a $5.3 million option to keep Horry, but the last laugh is his — the Lakers are a lottery team and Horry is once again a playoff hero.

His 3-pointer with 5.8 seconds left in overtime Sunday gave the Spurs a 96-95 victory over the Detroit Pistons in Game 5 of the NBA Finals.

San Antonio holds a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven series, with Game 6 on Tuesday at the SBC Center.

"It's the playoffs, man," Horry said. "If you don't get excited about the playoffs, you don't even deserve to be playing basketball. I get excited for the regular season, also, but it's just added excitement when the playoffs start."

His excitement has paid off for the teams he's played for and earned him five title rings. In May 2002 with the Lakers, he hit a 3-pointer to beat Sacramento in a Western Conference final game and even the series at two. A month earlier, he made a 3-pointer to clinch a first-round series against Portland.

Horry's latest dramatic game-winner was just the finishing touch on a remarkable scoring spurt. All 21 of his points, including five 3-pointers in six attempts, came in the final 17 minutes.

"You don't play on championship-caliber teams unless you have what he has," Detroit coach Larry Brown said. "He's done it with Houston, he's done it with L.A. and now he's done it with San Antonio, and he usually does it at the most important time." T.A. BADGER (AP)

Top Seeds Shine in Opening Round

Federer, Davenport win in straight sets on Wimbledon's first day

TENNIS | In keeping with custom, the defending Wimbledon men's champion played the opening match Monday on Centre Court. Roger Federer was ready.

Back on his favorite stage, the top-ranked Federer hit four aces in his first service game and successfully began his bid for a third consecutive Wimbledon title by beating Paul-Henri Mathieu 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

Lindsay Davenport, the 1999 champion and the top-ranked woman, needed just 41 minutes to beat Alina Jidkova 6-0, 6-2. Davenport had 29 winners and just nine unforced errors.

Davenport, 29, thought her loss in last year's semifinals would likely be her last match at Wimbledon, but she decided to delay retirement after staging a career resurgence.

"I'm still out there because I'm enjoying it," she said. "The ultimate goal is to try to win another Slam, and I still feel like I'm knocking on the door of having that happen. It's hard to walk away when you feel like you can achieve the ultimate goal in tennis." STEVEN WINE (AP)

Robinson Serves His Suspension

NATIONALS | Major League Baseball officials upheld the suspension of Washington Nationals Manager Frank Robinson after a hearing and Robinson served the one-game ban during Monday's game against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The suspension followed a confrontation last Tuesday between Anaheim Angels Manager Mike Scioscia and Robinson that led to the benches clearing. Robinson asked for a hearing so he could have his say. Scioscia served his suspension Friday, the day it was issued. Both managers were fined $1,000.

"That's what I couldn't accept and won't accept and will never accept, is why the penalties were the same," Robinson said.

The confrontation began after Robinson asked umpires to check the glove of Angels reliever Brendan Donnelly for pine tar. After Donnelly was ejected, Scioscia crossed the field to confront Robinson, saying he would have all of the National pitchers "undressed." Robinson argued back and a melee ensued.

Johnson's Been Huge for Mystics

Rookie guard already becoming a team leader

MYSTICS | At 5-foot-3, Mystics rookie point guard Temeka Johnson is the shortest player in the WNBA. But despite her small stature, Johnson has a heart the size of a lion.

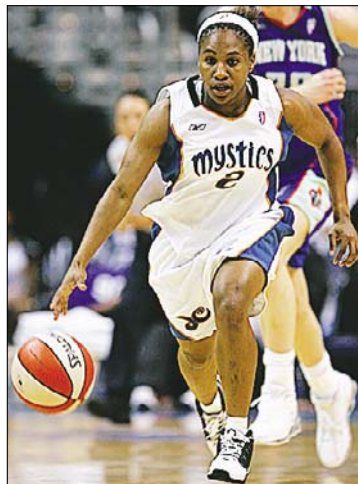

In the Mystics' 88-78 double overtime victory against the Indiana Fever on Saturday, Johnson scored a season-high 21 points on 9-of-11 shooting from the field.

The victory was important for the Mystics (4-6) who won their third consecutive game at MCI Center heading into Tuesday's game against the Phoenix Mercury.

"It gives us a lot of confidence," said Johnson. "It just shows us how talented we really are and let's us see if we really put our minds to it we can push through and fight through anything."

Johnson also dished out seven assists and grabbed six rebounds against Indiana. "Every time we broke down," said Mystics coach Richie Adubato, "she penetrated [and] made something happen."

This season, Johnson has emerged as one of the WNBA's brightest young stars. She is averaging 10 points per game which ranks second among league rookies. She also leads the WNBA in assists with a 6.3 average and is among the league's top rookie free-throw shooters (13-for-13).

In her debut, Johnson scored 10 points on 5-of-8 shooting and added three assists and three steals in the Mystics' 60-42 victory over the Charlotte Sting.

"I was surprised the first night when she took over the game in Charlotte," said Adubato. "She really played well. And now she just continues to be a tremendous player." BRANDY L. SIMMS

LAST CHANCE: Tiger Woods reacts as his putt on the 17th hole at Pinehurst misses, forcing him to settle for a bogey that all but guaranteed second-place at the U.S. Open.

Open Bogeys Haunt Tiger

2nd-place Woods not satisfied with close call

GOLF | Tiger Woods looked like a beaten man as he stood behind the 18th green, gently rubbing his knuckles over his upper lip as he gazed back at the 16th and 17th holes, a 200-yard area of Pinehurst No. 2 that cost him a chance to win the U.S. Open.

Off to his right was the bronze statue of Payne Stewart, striking the winning pose from six years ago.

Woods always has said he was thrilled that Stewart made a 15-foot par putt on the final hole to win the 1999 U.S. Open at 1 under par. He said it helped him sleep better knowing that Stewart finished two shots ahead of him, and that the par putt Woods missed on the 17th hole that year ultimately didn't matter.

This time, it did.

Michael Campbell won the U.S. Open by two strokes, with clutch shots down the stretch and a little help from Woods.

The guy who has built a mystique by making pressure putts blinked twice in two holes late Sunday afternoon, missing an 8-foot par on the 16th and three-putting for bogey on the 17th, missing from 6 feet.

Eight shots behind after two holes, Woods found little consolation from this close call at Pinehurst.

"Depends on how you get there, you know?" he said. "If you come out of nowhere to get second, then yeah. But if you feel you had a chance to win and you didn't take that opportunity to win the tournament, then it's disappointing."

Hearing Called on Tire Flap

Formula One season may be thrown up in air after penalties

AUTO RACING | Formula One's governing body on Monday summoned seven teams using Michelin tires to a hearing later this month after they pulled out of the United States Grand Prix for safety reasons.

The FIA hearing in Paris on June 29 could lead to a range of punishments including fines, docked points or even suspensions — possibly throwing the F1 season into chaos with 10 races left.

Only six cars using Bridgestone tires started the race in Indianapolis on Sunday after 14 drivers left the track following the warmup lap.

Teams from Renault, McLaren-Mercedes, Toyota and Williams-BMW — none of which raced — were told to attend the Paris hearing.

Two Michelin tires failed in Friday practice — one causing a wreck that prevented Ralf Schumacher from competing — prompting Michelin to rule its tires were unsafe. JEROME PUGMIRE (AP)

HE DA 'GUY': Seth MacFarlane's "Family Guy," famously canceled and then resurrected to accolades, will soon also be a DVD-only movie set for September release. Who's "underperforming" now, huh, Fox?

A LONG WAY FROM '3RD ROCK': Gordon-Levitt leaves sitcoms behind as the predatory hustler in the film "Mysterious Skin."

Brave New Skin

Child star Joseph Gordon-Levitt grows into a fearless actor

CHANGE IS GOOD | Resembling a steely-eyed Larry Clark pinup, 24-year-old Joseph Gordon-Levitt prepares to mount his first New York trick in Gregg Araki's incredibly moving and daring new film

"Mysterious Skin," in which the actor plays a prostitute.

It is this image that proves Gordon-Levitt, most famous for his role as little Tommy Solomon on "3rd Rock from the Sun," is officially grown-up.

Gordon-Levitt became a bona fide child star before he was 10, steadily working on shows such as "Family Ties" and "Roseanne," and even winning a Young Artist Award for Best Actor Under 10 for his work in the 1992 film "A River Runs Through It." His career was launched after landing the role of one of four aliens in disguise on "3rd Rock," and he collected two YoungStar Awards during his years as Information Officer on the NBC hit.

Supporting roles in films such as "The Juror," "Halloween H20," and "10 Things I Hate About You" came and went before his first meaningful and starring role: opposite Don Cheadle in IFC's teen drama "Manic," set in a mental hospital. As Lyle, a kid with anger-management issues, Gordon-Levitt displayed a grittier side that he hadn't shown before. In "Mysterious Skin," he matures full force into an adult actor, playing Neil McCormick, a teenage gay hustler coming to grips with latent issues from child abuse.

The role he plays in "Skin" is of so few words that most of the brilliance in Gordon-Levitt's nuanced performance is in those quiet moments in which he is alone with his "johns" — scenes that required much nudity and even a vicious rape. "Joe took a huge risk on 'Mysterious Skin,' and it could've turned out terribly," Araki said. "He was ready to go there and really excited for the creative challenge of it."

To prepare for his role, Gordon-Levitt flew to Kansas alongside novelist Scott Heim, so that the actor could see "how people walked and talked" and view it through Heim's eyes. "Just having Scott rub off on me and spending time with him where the story had been born gave me the desire to do justice to what he had made."

This isn't Gordon-Levitt's first gay role. In December 1998, the actor, who says he is straight, shared a groundbreaking smooch with Topher Grace on "That '70s Show," which became the first male homosexual kiss on prime-time TV.

The Lay of the Land, in Music

Ry Cooder finds a whole world in one L.A. neighborhood

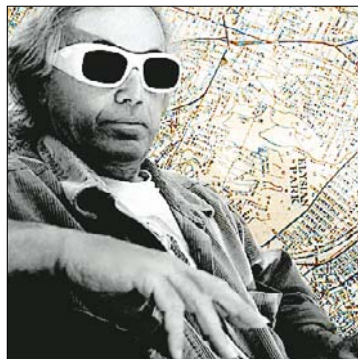

MUSIC | Using both real and fictional characters, archival recordings and new versions of vintage Latin pop, jazz, conjunto, corrido and R&B songs, Ry Cooder takes the listener on a mythical ride with "Chavez Ravine" (Nonesuch/Perro Verde).

"Chavez Ravine" tells the story of the hilltop Los Angeles Chicano neighborhood that was ripped apart in the 1950s to make room for Dodger Stadium. Baseball, McCarthyism, urban renewal, racism, community and history all play a part in what may be Cooder's crowning achievement.

Surreal in spots, seductive throughout, "Chavez Ravine" is a magical mystery tour to a time and place long gone but still alive in stories, memories and now, in song — in both Spanish and English.

Two of the main collaborators

Cooder has been a restless musical traveler at home and through the world.

on the album are no longer around. Chicano music legend Lalo Guerrero died in March while Don Tosti, who created the Latin "Pachuco" sound of the 1940s-era Zoot Suit culture, died last year.

Their presence only adds to the ghostly nature of "Chavez Ravine," which grabs you on the first listen and keeps whispering for you to listen again and again, revealing itself slowly over time but forever remaining out of reach.

'Pariah': Aim, Shoot, Repeat

There's nothing like a good first-person shooter, or a bad one

VIDEO GAMES | If you think first-person shooter video games aren't a big deal, consider this: "Halo 2" had $125 million in sales the first day it was released last year. It's no surprise then, that others would want to cash in on this bonanza. Among the latest would-be "Halo" heirs is the unfortunately named "Pariah" for PC and Xbox — but it's one gamers would be better off avoiding. There's the confusing, emotionally vacuous story about a medic named Jack Mason (that's you) whose transport ship is shot out of the sky near an Earth prison bristling with factions of angry soldiers. He'll drop a steady stream of expletives in his constant pursuit of his evasive prisoner, a gorgeous walking biohazard named Karina. The action begins promisingly enough in a gorgeous outdoor environment with roiling rivers and swaying trees. But it won't be long before the scene switches to first-person shooter cliché: lots of metal walkways, dank corridors and elevators. This endless spelunking is interrupted by a few interesting moments, including one level on a moving train and another where Mason has to leap from one ship to another while we zoomed over a canyon. Problem is, the gameplay rapidly degenerates into digital target practice, with no real moments of triumph or sense of accomplishment. The manual is the only way to learn about the background of the characters and how to use one of the game's more intriguing features: weapon customization. "Pariah" probably would have been a decent contender a few years ago, but it simply can't stand up against today's superior competition. MATT SLAGLE (AP)

MISSING YOU, AND YOU: "Ren & Stimpy" creator John Kricfalusi restored the cartoon for DVD, but fans caught omissions.

A Little Bit Uncut

Something funny happens on the way from TV show to DVD

TECHNOLOGY | When does complete-and-uncut mean chopped-and-trimmed? Fans of TV DVD are finding out. As the genre mushrooms, it seems more series sets include not episodes as they originally aired, but shorter versions cut for rights issues, content concerns or, more often, increased commercial time. "Chappelle's Show" and "In Living Color" came out on DVD minus some musical performances, while "Family Guy" eliminated a Hitler chant and an airport scene after the Sept. 11 attacks. Trims have become so pervasive that the authoritative Web site tvshowsondvd.com started an "alterations list" where fans post omissions they've found, now covering more than 350 titles. Devotees may spot cuts easily, but "the people that work on these sets are not huge fans," said TV Shows on DVD founder Gord Lacey. "They can't sit down and go, 'Oh, there's 20 seconds missing from that scene.' They're relying on properly labeled master tapes," which aren't always accurate.

Some distributors who do pay attention have started to label DVD changes, which Lacey said buys them a measure of goodwill with fans. Consumer reaction is most negative when a set is specifically labeled "uncut," as was the first "Ren & Stimpy" release. John Kricfalusi, the creator of the cutting-edge cartoon, claimed he'd restored edits he was aware of, but dissatisfied fans found others. Paramount's package for the "Seasons Three and a Half-ish" follow-up coming out June 28 pointedly avoids any mention of completeness. DIANE WERTS (NEWSDAY)

There's Life After Sitcom

Damon Wayan's show must go on ... the road

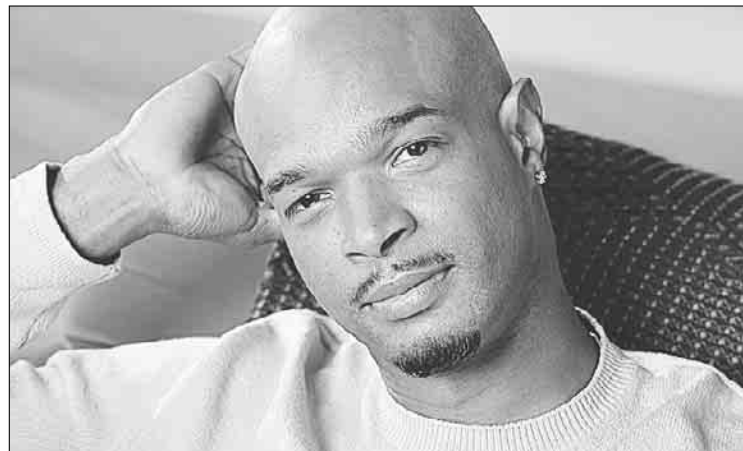

MOVING ON | Damon Wayans has ditched the wife and kids for life on the road. After five years on the air, his sitcom "My Wife and Kids" was canceled by ABC. Wayans felt it coming, so the second-oldest brother of the comedic clan that includes Keenen, Marlon and Shawn is on a standup comedy tour, preparing to film his show at the Apollo Theater in Harlem.

What happened with your sitcom? "American Idol" [was] killing us. So I'm starting a new project on my own. It's called "The Underground." It's a sketch comedy. I'm going to do it on my own, with my own money. It's going to be super sexy.

How do you prepare to do stand-up? Get in the clubs. I went to an open mic the other night. Just testing my material, keep working and grinding. I like to put myself in tough rooms.

Do you improvise? I'm improvising within a structure. You always have to work within some kind of structure. You don't want to be improvising in front of 4,000 people.

What's the difference between telling jokes onstage and on a TV set? With a sitcom you have keepers of the gate and censors. You are protecting Mickey Mouse ears.

EDGEWORK: Wayans is sharpening his standup before taking it to the Apollo.

What's the funniest thing that happened to you on stage? Oh man. I just did this Nike gig out in Portland. Nike has the most cutting-edge commercials ... so I'm thinking these are going to be the hippest cats ever. It's at five in the afternoon with no alcohol. They brought me in this room and it was the coldest reception. I felt like I was at a Klan rally ... They were trying to get me off the stage after about 10 minutes.

What's up with your boy Dave Chappelle?

I don't know. I just heard he checked himself into a mental institution in South Africa. That's not the place for a brother to rehab.

Why not?

Have you ever heard of apartheid? He must have lost his mind. I don't know what happened. Now that he has the $50 million he has all this self-imposed pressure. There really is no pressure. You just have to go out there and do what you do.

Who's the funniest Wayans?

Marlon. Marlon is crazy. If he were not in show business he'd be in South Africa chillin' with Dave.

Problems with alcohol and anger?

The National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA) is seeking people whose drinking and anger are causing problems for themselves or for their families. A treatment study is underway to see if omega-3 fats, commonly known as fish oils, can help.

We offer both a four-week inpatient treatment program and 12 weeks of outpatient therapy at no cost to those who qualify. For a confidential telephone screening, call 301-496-1993.

Deaf or hard of hearing? Call the Federal Relay service at 1-800-877-8339.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

Compensation paid to healthy female and male volunteers for donations of small amounts of bone marrow for research efforts in such areas as cancer and other serious illnesses.

- Ages 18 to 45

Seeking Special Egg Donor

Help Us Have a Baby... and Let Our Daughter Become a Sister

We are an active, happy family with a Mom & Dad who share a love of the outdoors, yoga, music, cats and, most of all, our 4-year-old daughter. We yearn to parent a second child and want our daughter to have a sibling. But to have another baby, we need an egg donor. Could you be that special woman? Our ideal egg donor is intelligent, tall, lean, 21-31, Caucasian, with dark hair. Excellent health history, too.

Egg Donor Needed
$7,500 COMPENSATION

If you are interested in helping us have a baby or want more information, please e-mail our attorney at Creative Family Connections:

ON TV TONIGHT

HARD-HITTING JOURNALISM I

"Private Warriors" on FRONTLINE (10 p.m., PBS) looks at the thousands of private bodyguards, drivers, cooks and security details now working in Iraq.

HARD-HITTING JOURNALISM II

Over at NBC, the priorities are somewhat different. Tonight on DATELINE (8 p.m., NBC), Katie Couric interviews "runaway bride" Jennifer Wilbanks and her fiancé.

THE MAN KNOWS HOW TO LIVE

Tommy's (Dennis Leary) boozing, duplicity and womanizing take their toll as RESCUE ME (10 p.m., FX) enters its second season.

I WANT TO BE A HILTON (9 p.m., NBC) There have been worse shows than this, but few as derivative and unoriginal. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

You Can Quote Me

AFI recalls the lines that made 100 years of memorable movies

WHAT HE SAID | "Fasten your seatbelts, it's going to be a bumpy night": "AFI's 100 Years ... 100 Movie Quotes: America's Favorite Quips, Catchphrases and Comebacks" (8 p.m., CBS) offers three hours of clips celebrating Hollywood's most memorable lines of dialogue.

It seems that catchphrases have gotten dumber as movies have become more formulaic. Few thought the homicidal impatience of "Go ahead, make my day" could be topped. But then "I'll be back" arrived, and that's hard to top in the monosyllabic taciturnity department. Or maybe I just can't handle the truth.

Some writers seem to swing for the catchphrase fences a tad too often. "Jerry Maguire" is sure to be honored for "Show me the money," a slogan that resonated in the dotcom years. But that film also includes "You complete me" and "You had me at hello," two insufferable utterances that became instant self-parodies — and were lampooned in "Austin Powers." "Oh, behave!"

So here's looking at you kid, don't get stuck with the fuzzy end of the lollipop. May the force be with you. Phone home and make him an offer he can't refuse. Will these be among the top five phrases? Frankly, my dear, I don't give a damn! KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

Riding lawn mowers come into their own as racing machines

That riding lawn mower may not look like much sitting in the back of the garage, crammed between bikes and shovels and rakes. Even when it's out in the yard, puttering along, it seems more Forrest Gump than Mark Martin.

Strip off the blades and give it room to run, though, and it's transformed into a rumbling racer that can burn some serious sod — “a true racing machine,” said racer Greg Honchell.

Go ahead and snicker. What started as a whim 13 years ago has grown so popular there are now more than 100 races a year across the country. The U.S. Lawn Mower Racing Association will have 14 points races this year, and local chapters run dozens more, including divisions for children as young as 8 years old.

The national championships are televised, and a video game is in the works. Some drivers even have sponsors.

And that's just in the United States. In England, where the sport began, they've been chewing up grass for more than 30 years.

“When I say I race lawn mowers, they look at you like, ‘You race lawn mowers? They only go 3 or 4 miles per hour,’” said Ken Jones, the USLMRA's race commissioner.

“When you start telling them about them, it's like, ‘I've got to come watch that,’” Jones said. And the mowers can go fast. Really fast.

Two of the USLMRA's classes — IMOW and stock — are for the grassroots racer, with only slight modifications to the mower allowed. The other divisions — BP, AP, SP and FX — are for drivers who crave speed.

Mowers in the BP category, for example, typically reach 40 to 50 mph speeds. FX — “factory experimental” — mowers leave grass stains on those slowpokes.

“I've run 91 on a lawn mower,” said George Herrin, USLMRA driver of the year last year. “[Another race] I averaged 70 miles per hour. That put me running about 89 on the straightaways.”

These mowers aren't some souped-up specials that don't resemble anything sold at the hardware store. All mowers have to be originally designed to cut residential lawns and sold first through a dealer.

“I cut grass with that mower before I raced it. Six acres,” Herrin said. “It was a really good grass cutter. But I needed the chassis.”

That's the kind of practicality that got this sport mowing in the first place. Back in 1973, racing fans were sitting in a British pub, complaining about the high cost of motor sports. Whether it was cars, go-karts or motorcycles, the average fan was being priced out of participating in the sport.

According to the British Lawn Mower Racing Association's Web

I cut grass with that mower before I raced it. Six acres. It was a really good grass cutter. But I needed the chassis.”

GEORGE HERRIN
2004 USLMRA DRIVER OF THE YEAR

site, the group decided that because everybody has a lawn mower, they would race those. And cutting the grass was never quite the same.

In 1992, lawnmower maker Gold Eagle founded the USLMRA on April Fool's Day to promote one of its products. “Each year it kept growing,” said Jones. But, obvious giggle factor aside, why?

For racing enthusiasts, it's an affordable way to get their fix — some can get by spending as little as $500 a year on their mowers. Most people already own a mower, and getting it ready for the stock division can be as simple as removing the blades, having an automatic turnoff switch, and coming up with a clever name for it, such as “Sodzilla,” “Mr. Mowjangles” and “The Prograssinator.”

Don't have a mower? Take a drive somewhere rural and scout out roadside junk piles. There's bound to be a mower buried in there.

The only other requirement is safety gear: helmet; goggles or a face mask; long-sleeve shirt or jacket; long pants; full-finger gloves; and leather footwear that covers the ankle. Doesn't have to be fancy: Some drivers at a recent “Mowdown” race in Oregon, Ill., looked like they'd taken a wrong turn out of their yards, in jeans, T-shirts and work boots.

Another major draw: Mower racing is for just about anybody interested. “It's something everybody can do, but it's unique ... It's still serious racing, but it sets it apart,” said Honchell. NANCY ARMOUR (AP)

Weddings

Dos and Don'ts

Author and wedding expert EDITH GILBERT was online last Wednesday to answer questions about wedding etiquette | washingtonpost.com/liveonline

I work in a small office (about 20 people). In making up my invitation list for my wedding there are two or three colleagues I would rather not invite. We're friendly, just not overly so. Am I in an all or none situation?

Sorry my dear, in your case it would be all or none. In a work setting one need only invite one's boss and if one invites co-workers, one must of course also invite their spouses and the invitations need to be sent to the home.

If I receive an invitation to a wedding, am I automatically obligated by etiquette to bring/send a gift? For example, if I decline the invitation for one reason or another, is a gift still expected? Does it matter if the wedding is for an old friend versus an extended family member?

A wedding gift is expected even if one is not able to attend.

Is it ever appropriate for the divorced father and mother of the bride to sit side-by-side in the same row or pew?

If both parents are not remarried and are on good terms, there is no reason they cannot sit together side-by-side at the wedding.

Is it common practice for the groom's family to be requested to pay for the flowers at the wedding? I had never heard this before but my bride's mother just made that request to my parents. What is the etiquette on this?

People have trends and customs in different parts of the country, and this is an example of such a custom. My answer to your question is that it is not a common custom.

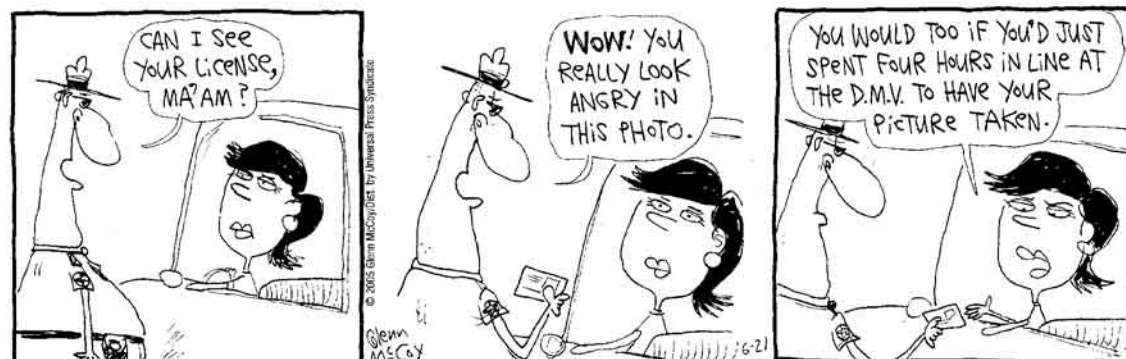

What is the suggested attire for a "black tie optional" wedding?

This question comes up frequently and my standard reply is if you own a tuxedo — wear it! If you don't own a tuxedo it isn't necessary to rent one because a dark suit and white shirt will do nicely. If you don't own a dark suit then you might consider renting a tuxedo.

Metro Needs to Listen More

WHAT DO METRO and Metrobus have in common? Yes, top management. On Friday, the Post and Express reported that Metro received suggestions from an external panel of experts to improve Metrobus services, including checking its vehicles every morning, fixing broken signs and trying to fix the "bunching" of buses on streets. To identify these obvious problems couldn't Metro have used internal sources — such as its drivers who do great jobs keeping up with tight schedules and carrying us through crowded streets?

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't say or do the wrong things that will unintentionally strike a negative chord with a loved one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Take someone up on a special offer before it's too late and you have your hands full with something or someone else.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An excellent day to tend to domestic chores you've been putting off for some time. This is no time to be careless in the home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be sure to show affection to those you love. Much depends on honesty and sincerity in all relationships — at home and at work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You must find the time to get away from it all and be by yourself. Solitude can heal any recent emotional wounds — if you let it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Take a moment before you speak or you may unintentionally insult someone, threatening an already strained relationship.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Responsibilities may be heaped upon you by others. Know when to say no or you will soon be in over your head and overwhelmed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't be afraid to ask for what you need from the people closest to you. You don't always have to tend to your own business by yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Be careful not to let your frustrations affect your interaction with others or you may strike out at the wrong person without cause.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Now is not the time to engage in a war of words with a loved one. Leave tit-for-tat to those less communicative with each other.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Treat yourself to something special — and perhaps a bit unusual. Evening brings the opportunity to explore a new opening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Some doors say in and some doors say out — and you don't want to get confused in the middle of a complicated transaction.

GIVE
FOR MY LIFE!

R. Donald Tomasik

I wanted to write and let you know that I am eternally grateful to you for saving my life! I saw an ad for mobile ultra-sound tests for a year before actually signing up to be tested. I just had a feeling that something wasn't right; my wife kept urging me to spend the $179 and get checked for nothing else but the peace of mind.

Boy, am I glad I did, it was found that I had a 5 1/2 centimeter aortic aneurysm. I was able to take my test results to my primary care physician and be referred to a specialist, Doctor Showalter, who's first question was 'how do you know you have an aneurysm?' I showed him my Healthfair test results and he smiled and said, 'those Healthfair screenings probably saved your life!'

That was in February 2003 and after a successful surgery, I'm happy to say I'm in good health in 2004 and indebted to Healthfair USA for saving my life! Unfortunately our friend Connie in Vermont didn't have an opportunity to have these inexpensive tests and died of a ruptured aneurysm. We miss her and hope to see Healthfair mobile units all over the country someday. It really is necessary to have these tests since Medicare won't pay for preventative screenings and I couldn't afford to pay the hospital price! Thanks from both Marge and I for your 7 test package, it was truly an investment in my health!

I am a physician here in Charleston, SC; a very skeptical one at that. I have been seeing your ads in the newspaper of your cardiac and vascular screenings, and have to say I was the first to shout "scam artist". I started getting patients showing me this ad and asking my opinion. Instead of answering them with my first thought, I decided to check into your organization myself and do some research. With the cost of healthcare these days I was very concerned of the legitimacy of your organization. The first thing I decided to do was make an appointment for myself and see it from the inside. I also needed the help of others to compose an even stronger report of findings. I then gathered 11 other family members and colleagues to do your studies. I scheduled various appointments for all of us throughout the month of June. I gave everyone an appointment time and asked them to report back to me of their experience and results. So for 12 of us it was off to the testing sites inside of a bus in various parking lots.

My findings were very impressive! I think your organization is an astounding service to the public! It is so nice to see people like you make this service available to the public. I commend you in this service of screenings you offer at this price, it seems impossible to do this in today's society of medical expenses. The rising cost of healthcare today makes plenty suffer and the conformities of today's managed care makes us all susceptible to the realities of our scope of care. I am now your best supporter and I will happily refer you to all of my patients, and commend you accordingly in the community!

ECHOCARDIOGRAM ULTRASOUND TEST

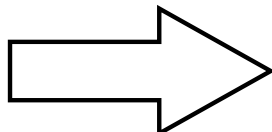

Echocardiogram is a video ultrasound of the heart. It may detect enlargement of the heart, valve abnormalities, blood clots and tumors.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM (EKG) TEST

EKG may detect ischemia, silent heart attack and atrial fibrillation. EKG provides a picture of the electrical activity of the heart.

HARDENING OF THE ARTERIES (ASI) TEST

Hardened arteries cause the heart to work harder, which leads to vascular disease. ASI test shows the degree of hardening of the arteries.

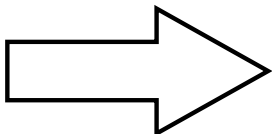

ALL 3 TESTS

These cardiac tests are painless and non-invasive. The combined cost is more than $1,300 at most hospitals.

STROKE & ANEURYSM PREVENTION PACKAGE

STROKE/CAROTID ARTERY ULTRASOUND TEST

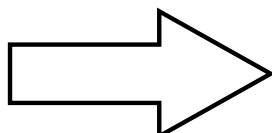

Many strokes are associated with blockages in the carotid arteries that may be detected with an ultrasound.

ABDOMINAL AORTIC ANEURYSM TEST (4-HOUR FAST REQUIRED)

Abdominal aortic aneurysms form as a result of a weakness in the lining of the artery wall that may be detected with an ultrasound.

BLOOD CIRCULATION (ARTERIOSCLEROSIS) TEST

Many adults over 55 have leg cramps due to poor circulation. ABI screening measures extremities for peripheral arterial disease.

ALL 3 TESTS

These vascular tests are painless and non-invasive. The combined cost is more than $1,000 at most hospitals.
